AGRICULTURE'S PROBLEMS
Help in understanding them

Selected list of materials available for use in the study, analysis and discussion of problems affecting agriculture.

THESE GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS
AVAILABLE IN LIMITED QUANTITIES

Because of many requests for material on a wide variety of subjects pertaining to agriculture, this list of bulletins has been prepared especially for use by teachers of vocational agriculture. However, discussion groups, women's clubs, business men's organizations, home demonstration groups, county agricultural agents, 4-H club members, future farmers, high school libraries, and others may be interested in obtaining copies.

Teachers and others using this list should make careful selection only of such materials as can be used to advantage. If uncertain about any item it is suggested that a single copy be asked for at first and additional copies requested only if they can be used effectively.

It is intended to issue revisions of this list from time to time.

Requests for publications listed herein, except those in Section VI, should be addressed to:

United States Department of Agriculture
Washington, D. C.

Requests for publications listed in Section VI should be addressed to:

Farm Credit Administration
Washington, D. C.
